the deceased. The chalman then appointed the politoria of the power and pleasant it may be to him and however unpleasant it may be to him and however unpleasant it may be to him and his friends of other localities, as and his friends of other localities, as a faithful chronicler of events and things hereabouts, I am forced to give it. The reason is not because he has not made a faithful and honest representative, but because he has acquitted himself so well in his present position that they wish to say to him, "Well done, good and faithful public servant. Come up higher; we wish to vote for you fer President of these United States."

The candidates for Representative also spoke; R. H. Moody before and Jacob Leech after the Congressional candidates, Mr. Dunn having retired dean andidates, Mr. Dunn having retired to the surplement of the moral candidates, Mr. Dunn having retired to the surplement of t Oct 7, 1876-tde.
